Can anyone help me to figure out how to rectify the issue? A: Issue 505 is fixed in version 12.6.4.1 Update your version from v12.6.3 to v12.6.4.1 Mystery over the death of missing boy, Andy Police and friends of a missing 10-year-old boy say they are "distracted" and desperate for information about the identity of a body found near a house where he was living with his father. Police said they believed the body of a boy, aged between 10 and 15, was found in a stream near Ebbw Vale, south Wales, on Sunday. But it was unclear whether it was that of Andy Ball, who was last seen alive on March 13 at a house in the village of Tonna, in the Rhondda Cynon Taf area. An initial post-mortem examination revealed a number of injuries, but no signs of a sexual assault. On Sunday night, a further post-mortem was carried out but the results are yet to be made public. Mr Ball's mother, Christine Chivers, said: "We are devastated by the tragic loss of our beloved son. We are all just devastated. We are all just distraught and lost for words." She added that they were "very, very upset" about what had happened and they had been "so hopeful" Andy was still alive. She said: "We are just devastated. We are desperately missing him." Mr Ball, who was nine years old, had been a ward of the local authority since 2008. The family's GP Dr Wendy Clare has been in touch with them and has been giving them practical support. Speaking on BBC One's Victoria Derbyshire, she said: "We've been doing everything that we can to help the family. We've been in touch, we've been talking to them, we've been making sure that they've got all the appropriate support." She added that she hoped the family would be given time to "make the funeral arrangements and that sort of thing". Dr Clare was told Andy's body had been found "a long way from Tonna" but she said the family were very close to the area and it was still "completely a mystery". She said: "It is a horrible thing to say but it's more helpful to them 82157476af
